7. Narrative Description

This is a three story, two-bay, two-part commercial building. According to a c.1937-38 photograph, it was historically three bays (#35566, Grossheim photograph) On the exterior walls of the façade and west elevation, the building's foundation appears to be of poured concrete, however, interior observations reveal stone reinforced with concrete. The building's original soft, red brick was refaced with blonde brick around 1941, now evident only on the front and west elevations (Vince Gaeta interview). The brick is of running bond with soldier brick courses under the windows on each story and along the frieze. The single door entry with a transom window is on the southwest corner of the building in a square "cutaway" supported by a brick column at the extreme southwest corner. Catty-corner from the door is a window of privacy glass blocks set directly in the wall. On the façade of the first floor are two single-light fixed wood window with rowlock brick sill. Two wood, single-over-single-light double-hung windows are found on the second and third stories. Two small square vents sit next to each of the 2nd and 3rd story windows on the east.

On the first story of the west elevation are three single-light fixed wood windows with rowlock brick sills and a single entry door with a transom window. The smallest, central window is boarded over, and the northern large window has privacy glass block. On the second and third stories each are eight single-over-single-light double-hung windows. There are two more small square vents, one each on the second and third stories at the north end, similar to the front. There is a soldier course of brick at the frieze with a concrete pediment labeled "Gaeta" for the building's owner when it was remodeled around 1941. The building cap is also concrete. The east elevation is a former party wall that is now smooth concrete with 9 visible tie-rod ends. The north elevation is a party wall with 107 Iowa, which was remodeled in conjunction with this building.

8. Narrative Statement of Significance

This building does not appear to be individually eligible for the National Register of Historic Places under Criteria A, B, or C, but it does appear to be a contributing building to a downtown historic district. The current appearance dates to the c.1941-42 remodeling. Since this time, the doctor's office has occupied this building. Neither this business nor the doctor appear to be particularly prominent in the community, and the building is not an outstanding example of an architectural style or type.

Though it lacks individual distinction, it contributes to the historic commercial nature of this district and retain sufficient integrity to convey this significance. The new brick face in c.1941 reflects a historic "updating" of the building within the period of significance for the district. It falls within one historic context identified for this district: "20th century Business and Industry.

This building appears to have been constructed between 1919 and 1928, as the width of the building changes from 34 feet to 42 feet in this period. E.R. Caudle opened a restaurant here by 1910. In 1923-24, the restaurant's name changed to People's Café, with E.R. Caudle acting as manager. In 1927 John

Downey started Booster's Café at this address. Based on the Sanborn maps, the building was reconstructed, at least partially, during its tenure as a restaurant. Work may have occurred around 1927 with the change in ownership. Mr. Downey operated the restaurant until 1937 when he sold out only to buy it back in May 1939. At that time he undertook an interior remodel ("Booster's Café," May 31, 1940, 142).

Shortly after this work, the Gaeta family purchased this building. They remodeled it by adding the new yellow brick and new windows along with the building they owned behind this one at 107 Iowa (Gaeta interview). Originally the building had soft red brick. The Booster Café continued to operate here until 1950, under various management.

In 1952 Dr. Robert Goad an eye doctor located here, and stayed until the early 1960's. The building is currently used by Edkin Chiropractic.
