7. Narrative Description

This is a two-story, three-bay, side gabled house with a two-story wing on the north. The house sits on a concrete foundation. The walls are wood, clad with aluminum siding. The gabled roof is clad in asphalt shingles. The house is elevated about four feet above West Fourth Street and is accessed in the rear by an alley.

The front, or south(east) facing, elevation shows a full width porch with a shed roof. It is supported by four, 20th century metal decorative columns. There is also a metal decorative handrail all around. A similar handrail extends down the access steps to Fourth Street. A third piece of the railing connects the east side of the house to a neighbor's wood fence. This railing was likely installed after the Hahn family purchased the property (1950s or 1960s). On the first story left and center, there are two two-over-one-light, double-hung windows. On the right a double-door, non-historic entry is found. On the second story above the porch, there are three equally-spaced one-over-one-light, double-hung windows, each with an aluminum awning.

The east elevation shows the east gable end of the house, the side of the north wing, a non-historic one-story addition to the north wing and the side of a non-historic concrete two car garage. There is a single two-over-one-light, double-hung window on the second story of the original house on this elevation. On the east elevation of the two-story north wing there are four, one-over-one-light, double-hung windows. The one-story addition projects about five feet to the east from the north wing and has a single-door entry facing south. A small one-over-one-light, double-hung window is seen on the east elevation of the addition.

The west elevation reveals the gable end with a single, two-over-one-light, double-hung window on each story. The windows have aluminum awnings mounted on them. Two additional one-over-one-light, double-hung, first-story windows are seen on the west elevation of the north wing. A smaller, two-over-one-light, double-hung window is located between these two. A three-light, sliding glass door unit is also located on the west elevation of the rear addition. A wood deck extends out from the entry and along this side of the house.

The rear, or north facing, elevation reveals the gable end of the north wing with a set of three paired one-over-one-light, double-hung windows on the left of the second story. The north elevation of the one story wing addition shows a set of three paired, large casement windows. The addition has a near flat asphalt roof. North of and attached to the addition is found a poured concrete two-car garage that is accessed from the alley.

8. Narrative Statement of Significance

This house was slightly west of the area included in the West Hill survey in 2005-06, conducted by the Muscatine Historic Preservation Commission under a CLG grant. It was noted to share a similar history within the houses included in the potential West Hill Historic District and likely be considered a contributing building in the district. This form has been researched and written by the commission in 2007 in preparation for the nomination of the district to the National Register of Historic Places.

The house at 805 W. Third does not appear to be individually eligible for the National Register of Historic Places under Criteria A, B, or C. However, it does appear to be a contributing building in a potential "West Hill" neighborhood historic district.

This house has been extensively remodeled, but it appears a portion was originally constructed around 1852 by laborer Thomas Woods. No information could be located on Woods, except for one entry in the 1856 city directory that listed his residence as 14 Water and his occupation. A land transfer record listed his wife as Mary. Because of the lack of information on Woods, it is assumed he likely did not significantly affect the history of Muscatine; and in any case, his contribution to the current building has been so modified it is of minor significance. A later owner, John Delahan (also spelled Delahant, Delehan and possibly other variations), appears to have completed the extensive renovations that have resulted in the building's current appearance. This would include at least one time between 1885-86 when a major expansion appears to have occurred. Delahan was a well-known and respected tailor in the community, but he does not appear to have substantially affected the history of the community. Nearly all the additions that have been completed on this house, including the most recent in 1954, are now historic. However, there are no significant architectural features shown in its relatively simple appearance. There are also a number of similar houses in the neighborhood and throughout the community. In addition, the property does not appear to have any association with any significant events in the community. Therefore, the property at 805 W. Fourth does not appear to be individually eligible for the National Register of Historic Places under Criteria A, B, or C.

However, 805 W. Fourth does appear to be a contributing building in a potential "West Hill" neighborhood historic district because of its association with 19th and 20th Century Neighborhood Development. At least portions of it appear to be some of the oldest in the neighborhood. It also appears to have had one of the most stable ownerships in the area, with the same family remaining in the house for nearly 100 years. Although the family did make some alterations to meet changing household needs and status, these are now all historic and therefore would contribute both historically and architecturally to a proposed West Hill Historic District.

Property records indicate Thomas Woods built a house at this location around 1852, probably as a family residence. He originally purchased "Lot 4 of Block 85" from Charles P. and Jane Hastings on June 10, 1851 for $100 (Book J, Page 615). Little information was found on Woods or his wife Mary. The 1856 city directory listed him as a laborer, and by then he had already moved from the property to 14 Water Street. Three years later, on August 1, 1854, he sold the parcel to James Bryne for $650 (Book N, Page 334). The large boost in the land's value in that three-year period indicates a house was likely built there between 1851 and 1854 by Woods. The 1856 city directory listed James Bryne, a teamster, with a residence located on the “ns Fourth w of Cherry,” which would appear to be the location of the present house. Bryne apparently ran into financial difficulties and Lot 4, Block 85 was sold at a sheriff’s sale on May 15, 1858 to George Dennison for $482.35 (Book T, Page 146). It is unknown who the residents were during this time.

On April 6, 1861, Dennison and his wife Margaret sold the property to John Delahan for $500 (Book U, Page 485). No Delahan (or variants) was listed in the 1859-60 Muscatine City Directory, nor did it appear during a search of the 1860 or 1870 census reports. The Delehan family was first recorded at this location in the 1866 city directory, when John Delahan’s residence was identified as being on “4th n.s., 1 w Cherry.” This would correspond to the current location. He was recorded as being a tailor in that edition. In the 1869-70 directory, Delahan was recorded at “cor 4th & Cherry,” and continued to be listed as a tailor. The 1874-75 listing also identified him as a tailor, with his residence on the “ns 4th w Cherry.” In the 1876-1877 directory. Delehan’s address was listed as 98 W. 4th. Several additional members of the family began being listed in the 1877-78 city directory. In addition to the father, whose address was listed as “Cherry cor 4th,” another John, assumed to be his son, was listed at 98 W. 4th, which is assumed to be the same location. This John worked as a clerk at Dillaways. The 1880 census confirmed much of this information and provided other details. It showed John, 51; and Maria, 40, had both been born in Ireland. Eight children, ranging from 19 to three also were listed in the house. Kate, 19, worked as a milliner; John, 18, was a clerk in a crockery store; William, 15, also was a clerk in a crockery store. Other children in the home included Mary, 13; Nellie, 11; Paul, 8; Agnes, 6; and Thomas, 3. From the 1886-87 through the 1893-94 city directories, members listed as residents at this property included: John, tailor; John A., variously listed as a traveling salesman or travels- Dillaway; Miss Kate – milliner (Whites); Marie, no occupation listed; Agnes, no occupation listed; and Paul, clerk at Dillaways. Miss Helen Delahan was also listed as a resident in the 1889-92 directory, but since she was not listed in the 1880 census, it is unknown what her relationship was to the other family members.

It apparently was during the 1880s that Delahan completed most of the renovation on the house – most likely in reaction to his growing family. According to James Hahn, a former owner and resident, renovation work that he completed in the house after he bought it in 1966, showed the original Woods home was likely a one or one and one-half story, front-gable building (interview, August 10, 2007). Two front-gable houses are present in an 1874 birds-eye map of Muscatine, which would appear to confirm Hahn’s suggestion. Hahn said his renovation uncovered evidence that a side-gable addition was added to the front of this original house, creating the current appearance. A closet associated with this addition (now front portion of house) contained a date of 1885-86. Hahn reported it appeared the initial gable-front house was later extended on both sides and a second story was added to it. All of this work is assumed to have taken place as the family grew and continued to live in the house. The net affect was to basically enclose the original smaller house built by Wood.

John Delahan was listed as retired in the 1895-96 directory. John, Jr., continued to be listed as a traveling salesman and Kate was still listed as working at White’s as a milliner in that edition. John Delahan died on May 6, 1895 at his home on West Fourth (Muscatine Journal, May 6, 1895, 4).

According to his obituary, he was survived by his wife, sons John and William and daughters Kate and Agnes. The other children had apparently preceded him in death. The 1897-98 and 1899-1900 city directories listed Maria Delahan (widow); John, Jr., no occupation listed; Agnes, milliner (Bankers) and Catherine, milliner (Bankers) as the residents.

The 1900 city directory only listed Mrs. M. Delahan as the resident. The 1900 census showed Maria Delehan, 64, living at 805 W. 4th with son John, 37, commercial teamster; daughter Catherine, 28, milliner; and daughter Agnes, 23, milliner. Catherine's age appear to be recorded in error in this census, as she should have been 38. The 1902-03 city directory continued to list all four family members, although the two daughters were identified as trimmers, while John was recorded as a clerk at the Hotel Grand. In addition, Joseph and Annie Lorber were listed as residents. No occupation was listed for him. This entry might have been an error, because subsequent directories did not include the Lorbers. From the 1904 to the 1908-09 directories, Mrs. M. Delahan, no occupation, was listed as a resident, along with John A., no occupation; and Agnes and Catherine, millinery. Maria apparently died sometime between 1908 and 1910 because she was not recorded in the 1910 records. Catherine, 45, was listed as the head of the household at 805 W. Fourth. Both she and Agnes, 36, were identified as working in dry goods. John A., 43, was also recorded as a resident, but his occupation was not decipherable. From the 1911 to the 1923-24 city directories, Kate and Agnes were listed as running their own shop, Delahan Millinery. John was identified as an agent for Northwest Mutual Life Insurance. From the 1927 city directory to the 1938-39 edition, Agnes and Catherine were listed as working at Delahan Sisters Millinery. John's occupation was not listed. Sanborn maps did not cover this block until 1928, when this house is shown. The 1930 census confirmed the three siblings continued to share the house, with John, 68; Catherine, 70, milliner; and Agnes, 56, milliner all recorded there in that census. The brother apparently died sometime after 1938, which is the last directory in which he is listed. Katherine (Catherine) is last listed in the 1943 directory. The property eventually passed to Agnes Delahan on July 16, 1943 (Book 105, Page 503). The last directory in which she is listed was 1952.

Fred Hahn purchased it from Agnes Delahan's estate on June 18, 1954 (Book 152, Page 50). His son James was listed as a resident in the 1954 and 1956 city directories. No occupation was listed for him. James F. and Beatrice Hahn were both recorded as the residents in the 1958 and 1959 city directories. He was identified as a mix operator for Hahn Bros Sand and Gravel in both editions. James and Beatrice Hahn bought the property from his parents on August 31, 1966 (Book 227, Page 767). James Hahn currently serves in the Iowa Legislature.

The current owners acquired it on October 25, 2005.
