7. Narrative Description

This is a two story, three bay, Dutch Colonial Revival frame house. The house sits on a concrete block foundation. The walls are clad in aluminum siding. The cross gambrel roof is clad in asphalt shingles.

The front elevation on the first story includes an enclosed porch that has eight one-over-one-light, single-hung windows in front, with an entry having a metal door. There are also three one-over-one-light, single-hung windows on each side elevation of the enclosed porch. All the windows on the porch have wood sashes and metal storm windows. The façade of the house is hard to see within the porch, but appears to have a historic large pane window surrounded on each side by one smaller rectangular window. The windows appear to have one-over-one-light, double-hung wood sashes. There is a historic entry and another one-over-one-light, double-hung wood window on the other side of the entry. The second story has two one-over-one-light, double-hung wood windows grouped together in the middle. There is a canopy above the paired windows, which also have shutters. There is a vent above these windows.

The north elevation has two one-over-one-light, double-hung wood windows on the first story. In between the first and second stories there are two rectangular windows, perhaps originally leaded glass, but do not appear to be that currently. On the second story, two windows have one-over-one-light, double-hung wood sashes.

The south elevation has three windows on a bay window. These windows have one-over-one-light, double-hung wood sashes. There is one additional window on the first story, which is located in front of the bay window. It has one-over-one-light, double-hung wood sashes. On the second story are four windows with two windows grouped together and two other smaller windows on either side near the roofline. All of these windows have one-over-one-light, double-hung wood sashes. This gambrel roof side cross gable is designed like a dormer, with the main roofline continuing under the feature.

The west (rear) elevation includes two windows on the first story that have one-over-one-light, double-hung wood sashes. There is also a non-historic entry on this elevation. The second story also has two windows (not on the addition on this elevation), with these windows also being one-over-one-light, double-hung and made of wood. There is one small, second-story section on the west elevation. This rear section appears on the only Sanborn maps for this block, in 1928 and 1946. There are a total of four windows on this section, with two windows on the west elevation, and one each on the south and north elevations. These are all one-over-one-light, double-hung wood windows.

There is a small, sub-level garage that faces east, but is attached to the house's north elevation. The grade in front of the garage has been cut to provide access from the street. The shed roof on this garage is covered in asphalt shingles. The Sanborn Maps available for this area (1928 and 1946) do not show this garage.

8. Narrative Statement of Significance

The Frances Hawley House does not appear to be individually eligible for the National Register of Historic Places under Criteria A, B, or C. However, it does appear to be a contributing building in a potential "West Hill" neighborhood historic district.

There do not appear to be any significant events associated with this home, and there does not appear to be any significant people associated with this house. Frances Hawley, the first resident, is not listed with an occupation while she lived here. The other two families that lived here through 1960 also did not have a significant impact. The Frances Hawley House is constructed in the Dutch Colonial Revival style, a house style relatively uncommon in Muscatine. The apparent cross gambrel roof form is interesting. Changes to the house include the non-historic siding and enclosure of the front porch. While the architecture is somewhat unique, it does not appear to be particularly outstanding. Thus, the Frances Hawley House does not appear to be individually eligible for the National Register of Historic Places under Criteria A, B, or, C.

However, the Frances Hawley House does appear to be a contributing building to a potential "West Hill" neighborhood historic district. This is the last of three homes built by this family. The father of Frances; Cyrus Hawley, built the house at 410 Cherry in about 1865, then Frances' mother had the house at 400 Cherry built around 1906, and finally Frances built the house at 402 around 1911. These three homes built by the Hawley family show a good example of 19th and 20th century neighborhood development.

The Frances Hawley House was apparently built in 1911. Frances Hawley had been living in the house next door, at 400 Cherry Street since 1907 with her mother Elizabeth. Elizabeth died on April 29, 1910, and on July 10, 1911 Frances received from the heirs of Elizabeth Hawley the North 93' of lot 5 block 85 (Book of Lots 44 pg. 83). Frances likely built the house at this time. Frances Hawley is first listed in the 1913 city directory at this address. Initially the house next door was 402 Cherry, but it quickly shifted to 400 Cherry. Frances Hawley is listed in the city directories at this address from 1913 through 1927. None of the city directories list an occupation for Frances during the time she lived here. The 1920 Census also shows no occupation, with Frances living here alone and fifty-eight years old. Frances Hawley died on June 9, 1928. The Muscatine Journal states that: "She was a well known church worker for the First Congregational Church. She was secretary for the home department, as well as superintendent of the primary department of the Sunday School. She was also an untiring worker at the first mission school in the south end. She served for many years as a board member of the Y.W.C.A., and as secretary at the time when the Y, conducted broader services, which was later handled by the welfare department and visiting nurses etc." (Muscatine Journal, June 9, 1928, 9)

On September 19, 1928, George and Anna Filble bought this house from the executor of Frances Hawley's will (Bertha Hoover; 70:535). George and Anna Filble, along with their daughter Vivian, are listed in the city directories as living here from 1929 through 1931. George is listed as being a tailor with Muscatine Tailoring.

George and Anna Filble do not live here long and on July 11, 1932, Andrew Nester bought this house from the Fibles (76:361). Andrew Nester and his wife Ethel Martina are listed in the city directories from 1934 to past 1959. Andrew is listed in these directories as a mail carrier through 1956.
